WHAT IS THE STATE 20 J-1 VISA WAIVER PROGRAM?

An international medical graduate (IMG) who enters the United States to complete graduate medical education does so under a J-1 visa (educational exchange visa). This visa requires the IMG to return to the country of nationality upon completion of that education for a period of not less than two years before re-entering the United States.

Despite extensive recruitment efforts, some rural and urban communities are unable to recruit or retain an adequate number of qualified U.S. primary care physicians. In an effort to improve access to health care for residents of underserved areas, the J-1 Visa Waiver Program permits interested government agencies to request that the United States Department of State recommend that the Immigration and Naturalization Service waive the foreign residency requirement in exchange for an agreement that an IMG who completes medical training in the United States will practice primary care for at least three years in a federally designated health professional shortage area or a medically underserved area.

ELIGIBLE PARTICIPANTS

Physicians who have completed a residency in one of the following specialties: Family Practice, General Pediatrics, Obstetrics and Gynecology, General Internal Medicine or Psychiatry. Subspecialties may be considered based on need; however limited slots are available. Physicians must have a current Visa status as indicated by their IAP 66 form which is an immigration document.

PROCEDURES TO BEGIN THE PROCESS

The organization that has been unsuccessful in recruiting an American born physician should contact our office to discuss the community's need for a physician. Staff will discuss the following in order to determine if our office can be of assistance:

- Practice site address. Staff will determine if the site location would qualify for the waiver program.
- Organization should discuss details of recruitment to date (at least six months of recruitment efforts must be documented), and furnish information regarding the J-1 physician they may be considering.
- Staff will determine if a site application and J-1 waiver application can be furnished to the organization. The site application requests detailed information regarding the practice.
